

Internship Position

Currently, we are looking for someone organised, hard-working, adaptive and creative who is an excellent researcher and writer. You will work closely with the team including the founder of the organisation learning about every aspect of education consultancy in China.

Our current projects that you will be engaged in include:

- A large China market entry guide for UK businesses in partnership with the British Chamber of Commerce in China
- A series cards to familiarize and educate the UK education sector about Chinese education;
<https://www.linkedin.com/company/ventureeducation>
- A report on British Independent Schools in China, analysing market trends, opportunities and challenges.

We may also need support with consultancy work for some large UK education organisations who are looking at entering or growing their presence in the Chinese market. And supporting research for upcoming talks and social media.

We need an intern who can fulfill the most basic tenet of enterprise education: you need to be able to make creative ideas happen.

We need:

- Proven interest in China; especially the development of education
- An enterprising personality with a proven track record of executing quality
- Strong writing abilities in English; Chinese-language ability an advantage
- Creative approaches to research; an interest in both the macro and trivial
- Attention to detail; capable of producing both quality and quantity
- Excellent organisation, analytical and communications skills

We offer:

- An opportunity to align with your research and study areas if possible.
- Constant constructive feedback and professional development
- Interaction with friendly, interesting and supportive colleagues
- An active role in research that has global reach and impact
